HIRING TRENDS INDEX

Q3 2024 Factsheet

An overview of the recruitment landscape

▲ In Q3, the UK labour market showed further signs of loosening. Job vacancies decreased, and more individuals moved into new roles. Although the majority of businesses (89%) were actively hiring over the past three months, fewer maintained an upward trend in their recruitment efforts.

A LACK OF SUITABLE CANDIDATES IS IMPACTING PRODUCTIVITY

As employers race to secure the right talent, many are struggling to manage day-to-day operations. Unfilled vacancies result in mounting deadlines and increased stress across teams, with skills shortages severely affecting businesses and hindering productivity.

53%

of employers believe that a lack of suitable candidates is the biggest threat to their company's productivity

These skills shortages mean employers

Struggle to attract & retain high-quality talent

71%

Rely on temporary staff or overtime to fill gaps

69%

Have less time to spend on important projects and strategic planning

68%

The rise of sick days and decreasing productivity

Without the right people on the team, the strain falls on others. Increased workloads can lead to burnout, reduced morale, and higher absenteeism. This sets off a vicious cycle: low productivity contributes to burnout and absenteeism, which, in turn, further reduces productivity.

WHAT STEPS ARE BEING TAKEN TO IMPROVE PRODUCTIVITY?

As employers race to secure the right talent, many are struggling to manage day-to-day operations. Unfilled vacancies result in mounting deadlines and increased stress across teams, with skills shortages severely affecting businesses and hindering productivity.

Top 3 actions employers are taking to boost productivity

30%

Flexible working & promoting work-life balance

26%

Improving communication from leadership

24%

Enhanced recognition and rewards for staff

3 key takeaways

As businesses face skill shortages and productivity challenges, they can take proactive steps to improve efficiency while prioritising employee well-being and engagement.

Focus on employee wellbeing

With a 31% rise in holiday and 41% in sick leave, burnout is evident. Prioritising benefits like health insurance, mental health support, and work-life balance can help reduce it.

Invest in training & development

While 27% of HR leaders believe additional training would boost productivity, only 13% have taken action. Providing role-specific training and development will upskill your team, attract talent, and drive long-term growth.

Improve communication

Half of HR leaders believe a lack of clarity from leadership affects productivity. By fostering open communication and setting clear goals, you can reduce team strain, improve focus, and boost overall performance.

BRAND IMPACT | CHESTER

I would highly recommend 1st Choice Recruitment to anyone looking for a new job. I suddenly found myself out of work and I was really struggling to get a new job. I went to other agencies first but nothing compared to 1st Choice. Everyone is so supportive and helpful. They really dedicate all their hard work to helping you. Always put a lot of time and effort into finding a job for me. Francesca and Carmen have been particularly brilliant. Always had brilliant feedback and always getting in touch about job opportunities. I am so thankful to them for helping me find my new job
